

Prague: administrative and residential centre

Atrium

Author: SF / pb | Published: 16.06.2009

A unique building, unparalleled in the Czech Republic, will grow in Radlice, Prague. The atrium house, unusually shaped into a trapeze and copying the steep slope, has been designed by the Czech architects Jan Šesták, Marek Deyl and their studio pha. The construction work on Atrium Radlice, with seven modern administrative spaces and 35 luxurious and highly original flats, financed by Eterna Develop CZ, should start this September.
