A festive opening of the project of the Internet encyclopaedia Šetrnébudovy.cz (economical buildings) took place on 23.6. in the American Centre in Prague. The site will be a laic, as well as professional platform to inform about environmentally friendly buildings together with aspects of economy, energetic efficiency and user comfort. The objective of the independent and non-profit project Šetrnébudovy.cz is to overcome the information barriers which persist regarding those buildings in the public, but also in the professional sphere, and to contribute to larger utilization of those buildings in the CR. The project has the ambition to help an easy, well-arranged and inspiring sharing of information about possibilities and advantages of environmentally friendly buildings and to help therefore to increase demand for construction and reconstruction of buildings into the energetically low-budget standard.
