The decline of the Slovak construction is expected to reach the bottom this year, Zsolt Lukáč, president of the Association of Construction Entrepreneurs of Slovakia (ZSPS), claimed recently. He added that the situation should stabilize and an increase in production may come next year. Of course, nobody can guarantee that this will really happen today. Answers to these and similar questions, however, should be at least partially answered at the upcoming Leaders of the Slovak construction meeting 2011 with a vision for 2011-2012, which is organized on 31st May 2001 by the CEEC Research, KPMG Slovakia and ZSPS in Kempinski Hotel in Bratislava. As the invitation indicates, the current state and expected development of the Slovak construction, including the prospects of new contracts in 2011, should be at the heart of discussion of representatives of state, leading construction companies, their suppliers and media.
